CHOITHRAM COLLEGE OF NURSING
"PRACTICE TO PERFECT"
INDUCTION TRAINING PROGRAM : 29/01/2024 to 03/02/2024

Feedback from B.Sc. Nursing IV year students

1. How would you describe your learning experience about induction training program ?

My experience with the induction training program was overall very positive. The program thoroughly acquainted us with the hospital's policies & procedures, ensuring that even the smallest details were covered. This comprehensive approach prepared us well for our duties, helping us avoid errors & focus on providing the best pt. care. The dedication of our teachers & incharges was commendable, they took the initiative to guide us, making sure we understood everything. It was an excellent opportunity to quickly refresh our knowledge.

2. Brief about most beneficial aspects

The most beneficial aspects of the induction training program were the comprehensive coverage of every essential topic, from basic to advanced, ensuring that we were well-prepared for our duties. Each topic was crucial & directly applicable to our work, making it difficult to exclude any as less beneficial. However, I found the sessions on drug administration & quality indicators to be particularly valuable, as these are critical areas that directly impact pt. care and safety.

3. What suggestions you will give for such future induction training programs?

I would suggest continuing the comprehensive coverage of all relevant topics, as this ensures that every aspect of pt care is addressed. It might also be beneficial to be included some hands on simulations or skills training i.e practical aspects too, to further reinforce practical skills. Additionally regular feedback sessions could help tailor the program to address specific needs or concerns of participants. Overall maintaining the high level of dedication, of teachers; and involvement of hospital staffs and incharges could be more helpful.

"In learning you will teach, and in teaching you will learn"

An induction training programme was organised from the 13th to 18th February, 2023 with a purpose to ensure that new nursing graduate joiners have a clear understanding of the hospital's policies, nursing protocols procedures, and culture, as well as their roles and responsibilities within the hospital. The induction programme also aimed to promote a sense of belonging and support among new joiners, and to facilitate their integration into the hospital team. The aim of the induction programme was to provide an overall orientation including its purpose, objectives, and structure as a part of institutional recruitment policy.

The induction programme was a multi-day event, spanning six days. The programme was organized by Choithram College of Nursing and overseen by the hospital's nursing administration department, in collaboration with nursing leadership and other key aspects. The day started with a lamp lighting ceremony by the principal of the nursing college Dr.(Prof) Aradhana Michael and the nursing heads of Choithram Hospital and Research Centre in the presence of the nursing faculties and new joiners. The event started with a welcome speech by Prof.Shweta Pattnaik followed by Prof.Shreeja Vijayan, Prof. Prachi Awasthi to mark the event. The Assistant nursing superintendent, Mrs Sunimol Nair and Nurse manager Mrs. Vijay Laxmi Nayar also gave a speech to commemorate the event.

The following is an overview of the structure of the induction programme:

The last day commenced with a post test for evaluation and feedback on the induction programme. The programme's objectives were achieved through a structured, multi-day event that offered training, networking opportunities, and ongoing support.

It was followed by an interactive session with the Director Medical Services Choithram Hospital and Research Centre, Dr. Sunil Chandiwal and the principal and senior faculty members of Choithram College of Nursing to encourage the new joinees to put forward their vision and ideas as a part of a comprehensive induction programme. The induction programme was conducted successfully by providing an overview of the hospital's history, mission, and values, familiarizing new joinees with the hospital's organizational structure and key personnel, explaining the hospital's policies and procedures related to patient care, safety, and confidentiality, introducing new joinees to the hospital's documentation and record keeping systems by providing an overview of the hospital's infection control policies and procedures and offering training on important clinical skills and procedures, such as medication administration and infection control policies.
